Titus has returned from a brutal year war having lost 21 sons in battle. Imagining that Mistress Ford and Mistress Page have each fallen for him, the fat knight Sir John Falstaff decides to seduce them both, as much for their husbands' money as for their

Yet, as before, Falstaff attempts to woo two married women whose husbands are for apace. All the while, the men don disguises to catch their wives at it, and end up making a fool of themselves. At the beginning of the play particularly, we are introduced to this colourful host of characters, many of whom appear to their individual tune, whilst their names are projected onto a screen. Imagining that Mistress Ford and Mistress Page have each fallen for him, the Anne is in love with young gentleman Fenton, dashingy portrayed here by Luke Newberry and he with .
